

NAME: Christian J. Rojmar

POSITION: Christian is a Consultant with Nouvelle Analytics, an independent consulting firm that provides a variety of consulting services including financial analysis and valuation assessments for companies relating to technology issues such as patents, trade secrets, copyrights, and other forms of intellectual property. The firm also provides financial analysis relating to damages assessments and evaluations for corporate disputes, litigation, acquisitions, and divestitures.

PREVIOUS EMPLOYMENT:

Texas Tech University	2011
WallStreet Brokerage, LLC	2010

EDUCATION: Masters of Business Administration, Texas Tech University, 2011
Bachelor in Personal Financial Planning, Texas Tech University, 2010

PRESENTATIONS AND PUBLICATIONS: “Reconciling the Federal Circuit’s VirnetX and Summit 6 Rulings.”
Law360, December 2015.

ENGAGEMENTS: Intellectual Property

- Patent matter involving alleged infringement of technology used to maintain a state for a user session when using a server.
- Patented matter involving alleged infringement of technology used to show mapping functionality on a web page.
- Patent matter involving the alleged infringement of technology used in receivers, transceivers and basebands. The technology related to the down-conversion of electromagnetic signals.
- Patent matter involving the alleged infringement of vehicle storage system.
- Patent matter involving alleged infringement of rotary cutter deck design.
- Patent matter involving the alleged infringement of security software
- Patent matter involving the alleged infringement of a technology used in the transmission of media via mobile phones and other devices to the internet and/or directly to other mobile phones.
- Patent matter involving the alleged infringement of technology used to enable eCommerce companies to provide personalized product recommendations to its online customers.

- Patent matter involving the alleged infringement of technology allowing customers to buy items online and pay in store.
- Patent matter involving the alleged infringement of technology enabling the reduction in the cost of manufacturing Silicon TV tuners.
- Trade secret matter involving the alleged theft of business plans and compilation materials.

Valuation

- Business consulting matter involving the valuation of a computer software testing tool for purposes of negotiating an acquisition.

Breach of Contract/Other

- Breach of contract matter involving the quantification of damages resulting from lost sales of portable vacuum desiccators.

Fraud

- Fraud matter involving allegations that funds received from Medicare and Medicaid were based on false claims.

CONTACT INFORMATION:

Nouvelle Analytics
6207 Bee Caves Road, Suite 310
Austin, TX 78746
crojmar@nouvelleanalytics.com
(512) 614-1336 (office)